

YOUR PAYDAY GUIDE

Paycheck Budget Planner

Budget by paycheck.

Every bill in the paycheck before it's due, spending money that lasts until payday, and an early warning when a paycheck is going to run short.

ONE FILE · WORKS OFFLINE · YOUR OWN BACKUPS

What you downloaded.

Read this page first. The rest is here whenever you need it.

FILE	WHAT IT IS
PaycheckBudgetPlanner.html	The whole app, in one file. This is the product.
Paycheck_Budget_Planner_Guide.pdf	This guide.
START_HERE.txt	The short version of this page.
LICENCE.txt	What you may and may not do with the file.

The HTML file is not a document that opens an app: it is the app. The code, fonts and charts are all inside it, and nothing is downloaded when you use it.

Setting up: about ten minutes

1. Extract the ZIP into a folder you will find again. A synced folder (iCloud Drive, Dropbox, OneDrive, Google Drive) is ideal.
2. Double-click PaycheckBudgetPlanner.html. It opens in Chrome, Edge, Safari or Firefox like a web page, and works offline from then on.
3. Take the welcome tour. A few short slides on your paycheck, bills, spending money and backups.
4. Follow the three steps on This paycheck: add your paycheck, your bills, and your spending and saving. The usual bills and spending are one click away.
5. Download a backup from Settings & backup. Page 9 explains why it matters more than anything else here.

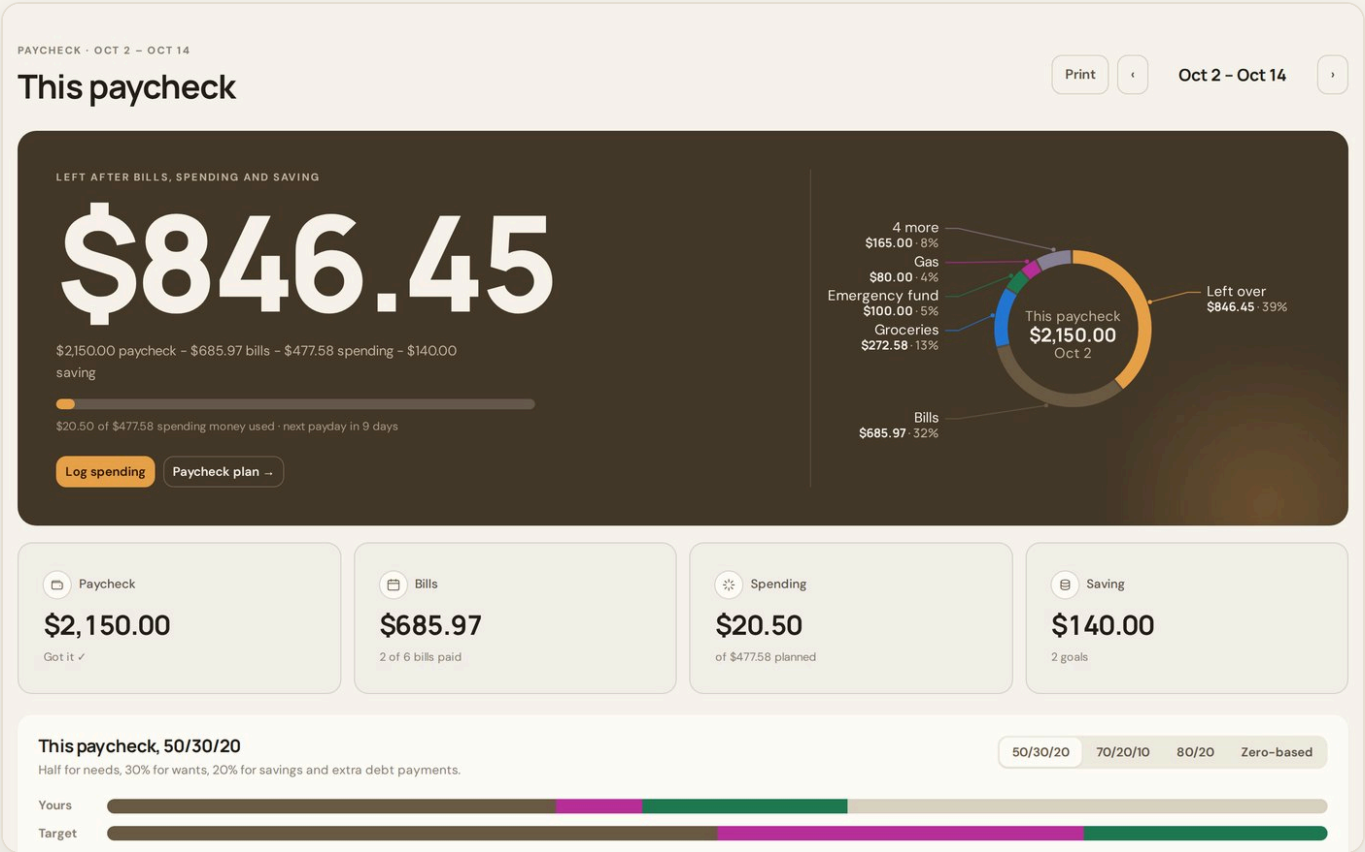

Want to look around first?

Choose Explore sample data on the welcome screen or in Settings & backup. A fictional household with two incomes, 12 bills and a spending plan fills every screen, in a separate session. Return to my paychecks brings back your own, untouched.

One paycheck at a time.

You're paid every week, two weeks or twice a month, and bills don't wait for the end of the month. So the planner budgets each paycheck on its own.

This paycheck. The big number is what's left after its bills, spending and saving; the ring shows where it goes.

WORD	WHAT IT MEANS
This paycheck	From your payday to the day before your next one.
Left over	The paycheck – its bills – spending – saving.
Short	Its bills and plans add up to more than it brings in.
Main paycheck	The income “each paycheck” amounts follow, when there are two.

Add your paycheck.

Paydays → Add an income, or the first setup step. Add a partner's or side job's pay the same way.

FIELD	WHAT TO ENTER
Take-home pay	What lands in your account, after tax. $2,150 or 1980.50 are fine.
How often	Every week, every 2 weeks, twice a month or once a month.
Next payday	For weekly and every 2 weeks: check your last pay stub. Every later payday follows from it.
Paid on	For twice a month: the two days, like the 15th and the last day.
On a weekend	Paid the Friday before, the Monday after, or that day.

Did your paycheck arrive?

On payday, This paycheck asks. Confirm amount with what actually came in: overtime, fewer hours, a bonus. The plan uses the real number.

Two incomes

Every payday from either one starts a paycheck. "Each paycheck" spending follows your main paycheck; change it with Make main.

Bills and spending money.

Each bill lands in the paycheck before it's due. Tick it off as you pay it, and log what you spend.

Spending & saving

Groceries, gas, fun money, savings: an amount each paycheck, or each month split by the days each paycheck covers.

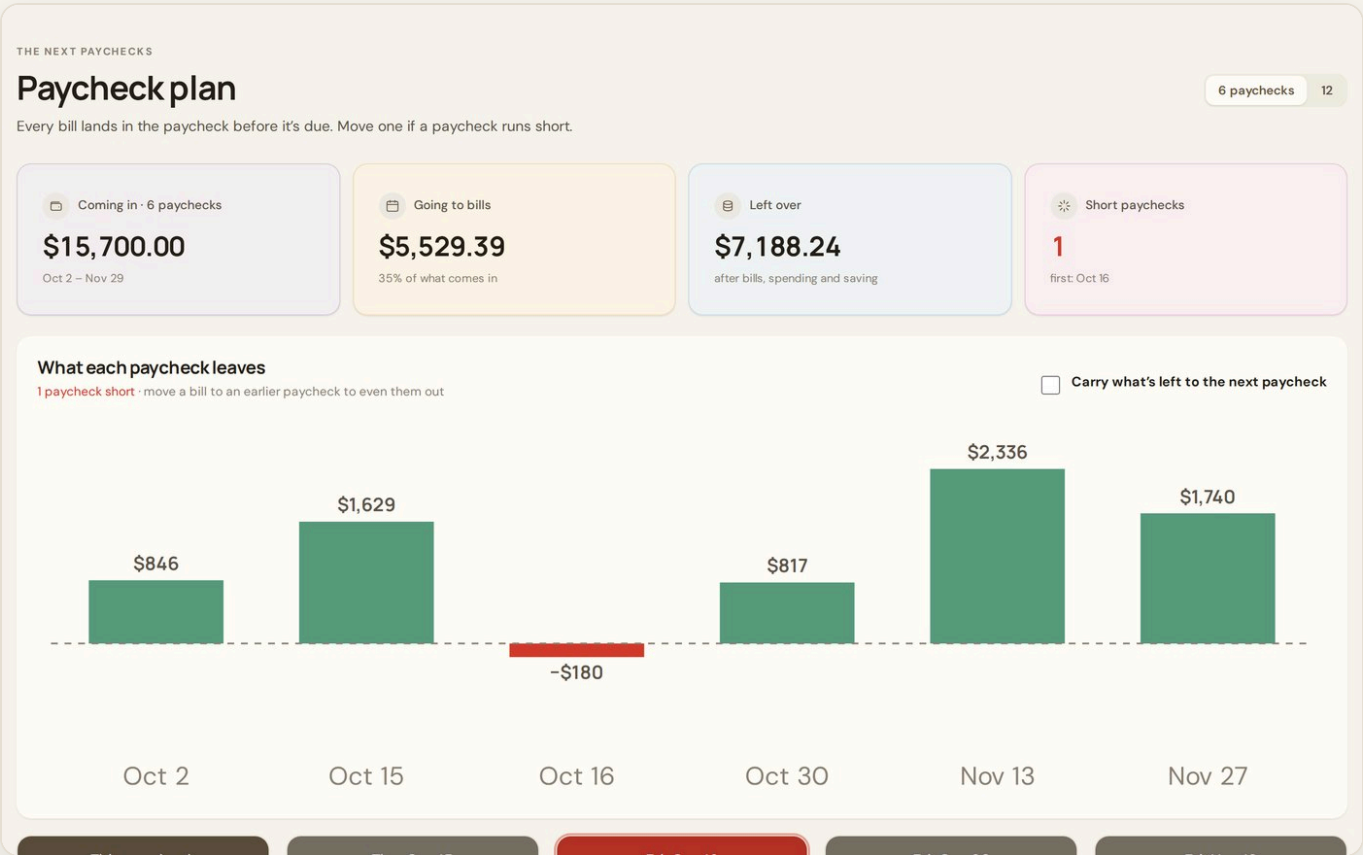

Log spending

At the top of every screen. Pick what it was for and the amount; you see what's left this paycheck straight away.

See a short paycheck coming.

Paycheck plan shows the next 6 or 12 paychecks side by side, and what each one leaves.

A red bar

That paycheck is short: its bills and plans are more than it brings in.

⚡ on a bill

Pay it from another paycheck, usually an earlier one with room. It stays there until you move it back.

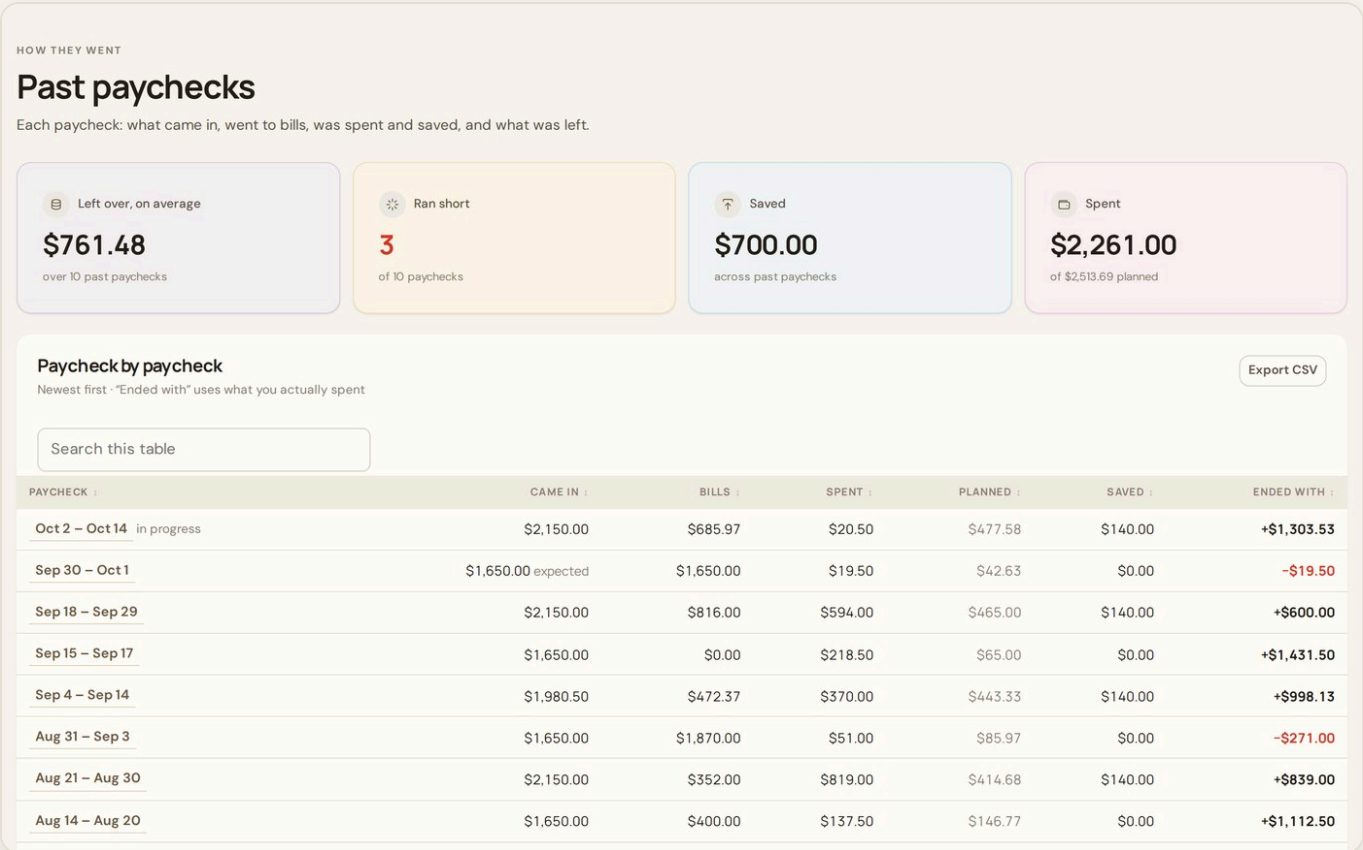

Carry what's left

Each paycheck starts with what the one before left (or owes).

How every paycheck went.

Past paychecks: what came in, went to bills, was spent and saved, and what was left at the end.

The screens.

Turn off any you don't use in Settings & backup → Simplify your sidebar.

SCREEN	WHAT IT IS FOR
This paycheck	What's left, its bills to tick, your spending money, and the next paychecks. < > to move between paychecks.
Paycheck plan	The next paychecks side by side; move a bill; carry what's left.
Spending & saving	Your spending and saving amounts, and what you logged this paycheck.
Bills	Every bill as a card or a table: autopay, amounts that change, free trials, price rises.
Paydays	Your incomes, coming paydays, and what arrived.
Calendar	Paydays ($) and bills together; click a bill to tick it.
Past paychecks · Payment history	How each paycheck went; every bill payment. Export as CSV.

Every table sorts, searches and filters. Every screen prints.

Keeping your paychecks safe.

Everything lives in your browser, on your device. Nothing is sent anywhere, there is no account, and nobody else holds a copy, including us.

Your entries live in browser storage: please read

- Everything you enter or import is saved automatically in that browser's local storage.
- Clearing your cache, history or site data will permanently delete it.
- It does not carry across browsers: data added in Chrome will not appear in Safari.
- The HTML file does not contain your entries. Copying the file does not copy your data.

Do one of these. Ideally both.

Download backup: every browser

Settings & backup → Download backup. One JSON file holding every paycheck, bill, payment, spending entry and category. Restore backup brings it back on any computer. The app reminds you when a backup is due.

Daily folder backup: Chrome or Edge

Choose a synced folder once (iCloud Drive, Dropbox, OneDrive, Google Drive) and a dated copy is written each day you make changes. Safari and Firefox do not offer this; use Download backup instead.

Moving to another computer

Copy the HTML file and your latest backup across, open the file, then Settings & backup → Restore backup.

A few useful fixes.

WHAT YOU SEE	WHAT TO DO
It opens as code, not an app	Extract the ZIP first, then right-click the file → Open with → your browser.
My numbers are gone	Check it is the same browser and profile you used before. Otherwise, Restore backup.
A bill is in the wrong paycheck	It goes in the paycheck its due date falls in. Check the bill's next due date, or use ⇄ to move it.
A paycheck looks too short	Two incomes? Make sure the right one is the main paycheck on Paydays.
Spending money looks small	A month amount is split by days: a short paycheck (a day or two) gets a small share.
My payday moved	Edit the income and set the next payday; every later one follows.
Folder backup unavailable	Use Chrome or Edge on a computer, or Download backup instead.
The currency is wrong	Settings & backup → Currency, or type your own symbol. Amounts are not converted.
I want the tour again	Settings & backup → Welcome tour → Show tour.
