What you downloaded.

Read this page first. The rest is here whenever you need it.

FILE	WHAT IT IS
RentalPropertyTracker.html	The whole app, in one file. This is the product.
Rental_Property_Tracker_Guide.pdf	This guide.
START_HERE.txt	The short version of this page.
LICENCE.txt	What you may and may not do with the file.

The HTML file is not a document that opens an app: it is the app. The code, fonts and charts are all inside it, and nothing is downloaded when you use it.

Setting up: about ten minutes

1. Extract the ZIP into a folder you will find again. A synced folder (iCloud Drive, Dropbox, OneDrive, Google Drive) is ideal.
2. Double-click RentalPropertyTracker.html. It opens in Chrome, Edge, Safari or Firefox like a web page, and works offline from then on.
3. Take the welcome tour. A few short slides on your properties, tenants, rent and backups.
4. Follow the three steps on Home: add a property, add your tenants, then record rent and add your expenses.
5. Download a backup from Settings & backup. Page 9 explains why it matters more than anything else here.

Want to look around first?

Choose Explore sample data on Home or in Settings & backup. A fictional landlord with three properties, a late tenant, a lease ending and a vacancy fills every screen, in a separate session. Return to my rentals brings back your own, untouched.

Every door, every month.

Home answers the monthly question: what came in, what went out, who still owes, and what needs you.

Expenses

Add an expense once: insurance, property taxes and HOA fees can repeat monthly or yearly on their own. Each one lands on its Schedule E line. Costs for all your rentals (bookkeeping software) go under General.

Your bank's CSV

Import bank CSV: deposits that match a tenant become rent, withdrawals become expenses, mortgage payments and lines you imported before are skipped. You check every line first.

What each property really earns.

Finances shows income, running costs, NOI and cash flow for every property side by side, for any dates. Profit & loss is the full statement; Schedule E is the tax worksheet.

Charge a tenant

Damage, utilities, cleaning, keys: list each item, set a pay-by date, then Bill prints a statement of charges. Record payment when it's paid.

Repairs & letters

Log a repair or a tenant's request; marked done with a cost, it goes into expenses. Letters & notices fills in 11 letters from your records; edit, print or copy.

The letters are starting points, not legal advice: notice periods and rules differ by state and city.

Keeping your rentals safe.

Everything lives in your browser, on your device. Nothing is sent anywhere, there is no account, and nobody else holds a copy, including us.

Your entries live in browser storage: please read

- Everything you enter or import is saved automatically in that browser's local storage.
- Clearing your cache, history or site data will permanently delete it.
- It does not carry across browsers: data added in Chrome will not appear in Safari.
- The HTML file does not contain your entries. Copying the file does not copy your data.

Do one of these. Ideally both.

Download backup: every browser

Settings & backup → Download backup. One JSON file holding every property, tenant, payment, expense, repair, charge and letter wording. Restore backup brings it back on any computer. The app reminds you when a backup is due.

Daily folder backup: Chrome or Edge

Choose a synced folder once (iCloud Drive, Dropbox, OneDrive, Google Drive) and a dated copy is written each day you make changes. Safari and Firefox do not offer this; use Download backup instead.

Moving to another computer

Copy the HTML file and your latest backup across, open the file, then Settings & backup → Restore backup.

A few useful fixes.

WHAT YOU SEE	WHAT TO DO
It opens as code, not an app	Extract the ZIP first, then right-click the file → Open with → your browser.
My numbers are gone	Check it is the same browser and profile you used before. Otherwise, Restore backup.
A tenant shows as late but paid	Check the payment's For the month of : it may be recorded against another month.
Cash flow looks very negative	A yearly bill (property taxes, insurance) landed this month. Look at Finances for the year to date.
Deposits came in as skipped	Add your tenants first, then import again: deposits are matched to tenants by name or exact rent.
A tenant moved out	Edit the lease and set the move-out date. Rent stops; their history stays.
Folder backup unavailable	Use Chrome or Edge on a computer, or Download backup instead.
The currency is wrong	Settings & backup → Currency, or type your own symbol. Amounts are not converted.
I want the tour again	Settings & backup → Welcome tour → Show tour.
